

International Association for Corporate & Professional Recruitment

The IACPR Non-Solicitation Policy

Conferences, meetings or any other functions of the Association, during or after the event is held, shall not be used by members, non-members or guests for the solicitation of business or any other commercial purpose.

Directories or other lists of members in the Association, regardless of the purpose for which they may be prepared, shall under no circumstances be used or made available by any member of the Association for any commercial purpose.

Adherence to this policy is a condition of membership in the Association and attendance at events – and all members and attendees are expected to adhere to this policy.
